After starting July on a rather weak note, the stock market recovered steadily to end up 1.3% for the month in local currency terms. The yen was little changed against major currencies.

Japan has been subject to extreme weather conditions recently. Torrential rain in western Japan caused landslides and severe flooding which claimed the lives of more than 200 people. That has been followed by a heatwave across the country in which the temperature reached a new record and exceeded 40°C on a number of days. The meteorological agency has declared it a natural disaster and warned it poses a threat to life.

Economic data remain broadly encouraging. Exports in June grew by 6.7% and the trade balance showed a surplus of ¥721bn. In contrast to recent months unemployment rose to 2.4%. Nevertheless, wages grew by 2.1% in May, which is the fastest pace for 15 years, and inflation also seems to be edging higher with the national CPI up 0.8% in June. On the other hand, industrial production was down 2.1% month-on-month in June following a small decline in May.

Banks, particularly the regionals, performed better over the month as speculation mounted that the Bank of Japan would make changes to monetary policy at its meeting in late July. The outcome was some minor adjustments. The Bank will now tolerate a band of 0.2% either side of the central target of zero for the 10-year JGB yield. Whilst keeping the overall amount of ETFs purchased unchanged at ¥6tn per year, it decided to increase the portion of TOPIX ETFs from 75.1% to 87.5%. Elsewhere, Japan agreed a trade deal with the EU which should slowly reduce the tariffs on cars exported to the EU. The Japanese parliament also passed the final piece of legislation to authorise integrated resorts, allowing up to three casinos to be built.

The results from most AGMs have now been reported. There was a record number of shareholder proposals put forward (42), although the vast majority were rejected. The proposal that TBS should pay out some of its large shareholding in Tokyo Electron shares garnered only 11.3% of the votes cast. Support for management generally remained high but it was interesting that the approval rating of Fuji Media's CEO fell further and was amongst the lowest recorded at only 66.2%. At other companies, such low ratings have often tended to prompt more shareholder friendly policies from management. At one small company, JP-Holdings, the President and six directors were forced to step down after failing to gain the necessary 50% approval from shareholders, including the company's founder.

Companies with a March year-end have begun to report numbers for the first quarter. Initial indications are positive with profits up over 3% for TOPIX companies. Most companies have left their forecasts unchanged at this stage although Honda and car parts company Tokai Rika have both raised forecasts for the full year after reporting encouraging numbers. ShinMaywa reported a substantial share buyback, which is probably the result of the pressure it feels from an activist investor who has built a very significant stake in the company.

Valuations remain undemanding for the fund, which stands on a PBR of 0.85x and a P/E ratio of 13x. These modest multiples also take no account of the substantial cash holdings of our companies and the progress being made in shareholder returns.
